God commends us when we act shrewdly to love others selflessly with our resources.

Shine your light so I can see You

2011.10.14 - David Crowder

On Friday, Oct. 14th at 4:45AM I woke up and traveled from Boston, MA to Denver, CO with my closest best friend Roger (The Rambling Man). We went to visit our mutual friend Greg and to see the David Crowder Band perform on their last united tour. Candyland, another mutual friend from San Diego, also flew to Denver to be with us.

On the night of the performance, we drove to Denver and I prayed for a parking spot and God gave us one right there on the street so we did not need to pay for a lot. The concert had three opening bands: John Mark McMillan, Chris August and Gungor. While listening to these bands I talked with Gregger a lot. We sat in the very back of the balcony but could get a perfect view of the performers when we stood. Roger and Candyland stood near the very front most part of the stage and took videos and photographs of the bands. Gregger and I laughed and joked and farted and played with his iPhone. It was a time of bonding and blessing. Then, when David Crowder came on, we were just blown away by his musical talent. I had listened to his album Remedy once, but didn't really like it. Gregger mentioned how he never really appreciated concerts as much as studio music. However, David Crowder simply blew us away. His talent is unparalleled. He played worship songs, fast songs, slow songs, techno, bluegrass, Christmas songs and a hoe down. It simply blew us away. But the best part was singing along with the lyrics I knew by heart from hearing his music on the K-Love radio station (www.klove.com) and performed by various Church Bands and at various Bible Studies.

Roger, Greg, Candyland and I had so much fun frolicking in Godly goodness on the ride home, recounting the night and just joking around. We also prayed for many things. I got the worst salad of my life from the late night take out window at Wendy's. Gregger won two bets against me for Dunkin' Donuts coffee. Bet #1 was that the theater held 1,200 people whereas I guessed 500. Greg was closer. Greg also bet me that the Wendy's teller would refuse the tip I offered him because it was against policy to take tips. He was right.

At home, the four of us prayed and laid hands on Greg to ask God to heal his knee, which has missing cartilage from it and prevents Greg from truly enjoying the outdoors and activities he enjoys. We also prayed that God would prevent Greg's mind from falling into despair and twisted thoughts of blame against God.

We went to bed at 1:00AM but I could not fall asleep until 3:00AM which was really 5:00AM EST so I was pretty much up straight for 24 hours.

2011.10.17 - Hike / Bible Study

On Sunday night I complained that I would not get enough sleep to wake up at 9:00AM to go hiking in Colorado.

However, Hani (The Local Heiress), prayed at 3:00AM in the morning for God to send me an angel to help wake me up and I did wake up at 9:00AM on my own, completely rested, and my companions had not left yet, so I went hiking.

We hiked up 800 vertical feet over more than 6 miles to reach a peak near Horsetooth Mountain where we got an absolutely splendid view of God's Creation looking around all 360 degrees. The wind was blowing just right to make Jim Bures very happy in his short sleeve shirt and shorts. The view showed a spectacular array of dizzying images containing not only Horsetooth itself (a butte looking type of red rock that resembled the teeth of a horse) but also the really tall Rocky Mountains being snowed upon, two other nearby hills, a large swath of land that was filled up with civilization and the distant clouds lining the horizon which were a color of just the right particular shade of blue to resemble the ocean from a distance. It was thoroughly amazing and I was so glad I woke up and went.

I also was very blessed by a friend. She helped me to use her smart phone to conduct Graphic Design business as All for the Lord after a phone call I received from a client while hiking down the mountain. Because of this my clients deadline was met and I received $365 for essentially doing nothing.

We returned to Greg's abode where I lead his Monday Night Bible Study on the parable of the shrewd manager (Luke 16:1-9). My teaching was very well received and aided particularly by one participant named Michelle, with whom my words resonated and to whom she compared the Mormons, a faith based group of which I am particularly fond. Then Roger, my closest best friend, led worship and we sang many songs including two David Crowder songs. Roger prayed in the Spirit and also asked for healing for Greg's knee, which is missing some cartilage.
